The subject is very suitable to all the students Community and it is the need of the hour for all the students.

Excerpts from the speech of the Resource Person:

She highlighted on Social Responsibility in Economic Development. Responsibility is of two fold. One is discharging a duty to the best of the self. Second, while doing so, caring for others, and providing whatever helps possible.

Every one of us is indebted to the society at large and we should realize here, where we are because of the social environment around us.

We have to strive hard for any change or improvement within our society in every small step we take.

Economic Development is nothing but overall social well being.

Everyone who is on his/her trial of his/her economic development is also discharging his social responsibility, if he does it in fair and just ways and means.

Even a child can play his/her part in economic development with social responsibility. If a child having enough or more pocket money keeps other needy children, than spending lavishly, then it is the hall mark of social responsibility.

If a vehicle users decide to take off their vehicle one day in a week, they are not only saving their money, they are also contributing the environment and national economy at the same time.

Anything we do in this world is not an isolated one. It has multiple implications and affects the society. We should carry forward this in to our memory and this subconscious in doing anything.

At the end, she appealed to the student community, who are blessed with cell phones and other gadgets, to carry on this message of digital economy. She emphasized that by this way, they are working for clean economy and more literate society.

Dr.M.Jayasuda, Assistant Professor of Economics, proposed vote of thanks. Mrs. R.Radjavally Assistant Professor of Economics contributed towards the master of ceremony.
